Etiquette Corner

Asking Traditionally, asking your instructor any question was considered disrespectful, however, times have changed. Today, communication with your teacher is key to success in Martial Art. Asking questions about your training and progression is encouraged. For example, asking if you are ready for your next exam is perfectly acceptable. Asking for help on something you are struggling with or have forgotten is also encouraged. What is not acceptable however, is to tell your instructor what you need to learn or what should be taught in class. Trust your teacher knows the path to your success. Along the way you may not understand completely all the reasons. Be patient and actively pursue improvement every day.
